EVENT DESCRIPTION

A Seminar is conducted on 'Empowering the students for creating better future through Emerging Technologies', date, between 10 am to 12.30 pm at Department of computer Science and Engineering.

The Speaker for the session is Mr. CH. Chandra Babu, Cloud Infrastructure Engineer, TCS, Bangalore.

Mr. Babu took over the dais and gave a short casual introduction to his young and vibrant audience and started with defining the importance of empowerment through latest technologies. He taught about how the students of today are growing up surrounded by technology. Using technology to empower students should seem like a given since technology is one thing they are more adept at using. Most students have navigated their entire lives with technology and find some comfort in its use. With workplaces transforming rapidly, students need skills like collaboration, communication, critical thinking, creativity, and computational thinking. It is also important to prepare students with technology skills. With technologies like cloud computing, artificial intelligence, machine learning, and more are in demand around the world, having an updated skill set has never been more important.

Technology is constantly advancing. This gives rise to new jobs and industries, such as coding and artificial intelligence. Technology provides a makers education in AI, IT, design, and many STEM fields. It does this through specialized programs that allow students to explore these interests.

Technology connects students to tools and resources.

Technology is rapidly changing. Information is rapidly streaming. Awareness of the different technologies and how to use them is essential. When students are comfortable with learning new technologies, they are better at adapting to technological change.

Around 75 students attended the seminar. The Students were benefited from his valuable speech. The Seminar ended with gratuity to the resource person and vote of thanks.
